Museum Preservation Award

The Oil Museum of Canada, owned and operated by the County of Lambton, is being recognized for its work in facilitating the preservation and understanding of artifacts related to the early days of the Canadian petroleum industry.

The Petroleum History Society's Preservation Award comes as the County of Lambton and Fairbank Oil Fields continue their joint pursuit of UNESCO World

Heritage site designation for the Oil Springs Industrial Landscape site. A joint application was submitted to Parks Canada earlier this year, for inclusion on Canada's Tentative List for World Heritage Sites. For more information about Fairbank Oil Fields, visit fairbankoil.com. To learn more about the Oil Museum of Canada, visit lambtonmuseums.ca/oil.

York Wilson: The Story of Oil

A Partnership Between Art & Industry

March 23 - April 23

Imperial began collecting art more than 70 years ago with the goal of supporting Canadian artists, contributing to Canadian culture, enhancing the work environment for employees, and providing public awareness of the visual arts. The partnership of art and industry is long and storied at the JNAAG.

To mark Canada's 150th birthday, Imperial is donating six million dollars' worth of artworks and art sale proceeds to Canadian museums, galleries and the United Way. As part of the nationwide donation, the Judith & Norman Alix Art Gallery has received eight large sketches by York Wilson that celebrate Canada's technological and industrial growth, specifically the Story of Oil.

The sketches document the artistic process that occupied Wilson for over two years as he researched and planned the mural, which still exists in the lobby of the former Imperial building at 111 St. Clair Avenue West in Toronto.

Show your support for a UNESCO World Heritage Designation for Oil Springs

Fairbank Oil and The County of Lambton are applying for Canada's tentative list for UNESCO World Heritage designation. It's a rare opportunity that Canada offers only once a decade. Find out more about the oil field that continues to use 1860s technology to produce 24,000 barrels of oil for Imperial per year.

The Oil Springs UNESCO World Heritage committee will be on hand to tell you about Lambton's amazing early oil history with displays, videos and more! Show your support by filling in a postcard.

Through a series of four exhibitions we are honoured to pay tribute to the many individuals, art collectors, and corporations who have donated art to help build the Judith & Norman Alix Art Gallery's outstanding permanent collection.

THE OIL SPRINGS

INDUSTRIAL LANDSCAPE:

THE OIL MUSEUM OF CANADA & FAIRBANK OIL FIELDS

- * In early times, indigenous people gathered the oil from these seepages and made medicines.
- * In 1858, James Miller Williams dug a well in Oil Springs. He produced oil, refined it in a crude "still," marketed it and transported it.
- * This happened as the world sought a new energy source to replace the coal that was distilled for making kerosene lamps. The Oil Springs "Illuminating Oil" triggered the very first Oil Rush in North America!
- * The Oil Museum of Canada's exciting interactive displays show how Lambton oil drillers started taking their skills around the world in 1874!
